January's Meeting Activity

We will view Nita Engle's DVD video tutorial where she will demonstrate a variety of advanced techniques which can be used by all. The tutorial will run approximately 40 minutes. This will be our first attempt at viewing a video. Jim Buchan and Jim Grisham are doing a great job working out the set-up requirements for the projection. Our library includes her book and DVD. ■

Jim Buchan will present another of his "almost free workshops" . . .

. . . January 24th at Pershing Studios from 9:30 - 2:30. The subject will be this beautiful winter snow scene. The cost will be five dollars. Sign up will be available at the January meeting. ■ known for cityscapes and boats. Details, subject and cost to be announced at a later date.

 September 2019:
GCWS has an agreement with the Hive in Jenks for them to host our Membership Show in September.

“You have the sky overhead giving one light; then the reflected light from whatever reflects; then the direct light of the sun; so that, in the blending and suffusing of these several luminations, there is no such thing as a line to be seen anywhere.”

Karen St. Clair

For receiving 1st place in the GCWS members show, M. Graham & Co. Awarded Karen St. Clair a huge set of their watercolors worth $250. They mentioned to Jeanette Hooks that they would like to feature her watercolor paintings on their social media pages. Karen tried out the watercolors and boy what a treat. She painted on an 11” x 14” Ampersand Aquaboard she was awarded at last years member’s show. Karen said she was really procrastinating using it but that she really liked it and would probably get some more. She shared photos of her results with M. graham & Co. and they posted her work on their facebook and instagram pages. ■

Teresa Herndon’s Demo and Workshop

Teresa presented an informative and fun workshop enjoyed by nine attendees December 6. Her painting, “Winter Ranch”, was the subject and provided a perfect exercise in painting background trees and snow covered fields. Teresa emphasized the importance of focal point by keeping the red barn the “star of the show”. ■

You're invited...

... to a book signing event with former BAA member Kurt Maurer who will be back in Bartlesville with his book "The Art of a Life". He will also be showing a limited exhibit of original artwork of calligraphy, graphic design, painting, photography, jazz sketches and travel journals.

Sunday, December 16,
3 PM - 6 PM
Copper Restaurant + Bar
15th Floor, Price Tower,
Bartlesville
Free and all are welcome.
Wine and hors-d'oeuvres+

While looking at the book "Splash 16" published in 2015. Of the approx 75 artists with Paintings - 4 of them have provided workshops for our organization. Artists were Michael Holter, Lance Hunter, David Rankin and Soon Warren. GCWS is a wonderful home for "top quality" lessons to improve your painting skills - not to mention fellowships with other artists.

Teresa Herndon's painting, "Winter's Joy" won first place in the Alpha Rho Tau membership show last November.
Congratulation! ■
